Dear Teacher,
I did my best
but a bird flew in and ate my test, with only a minute left to go I'd never have time to write down all I know.

Oh, and about the paper I had to do,
I thought I gave it into you.
But I'll check my books in case I forgot,
(for what it seems it's really not).
So please teacher give me an incomplete, and thank-you for being so sweet.

now I'll sign good-bye
a student (that'll try,
as long as I know that I'll get by.)

P.S. all those classes I did not attend
I do not mean this to offend but I had something else better to do besides, most of the lecture I already knew

ROSEMARY COLLEGE

There's just this movement
inside me,
I belong to the class of women who think and walk too fast.
I have too much time to become truely liberated and yet have too much feeling to kid myself.

I am not a molded Steinham.
I am me
by society homebound.
There's just this crazy movement that pulls at my leg.
But I'll hold onto my hat when the wind tries to take it.

Homecoming

Homecoming was the beginning of another tradition at Rosary, and perhaps the most significant celebration of the year for several reasons: Rosary's newly-found football team was honored for its fantastic first year record, and a Homecoming Court was chosen to preside at the activities ...

... a slighty different twist was added to the event, as B.J. Miller was elected Homecoming Queen, and Terri Schultz was elected Homecoming King.

Lecturers and Guests

Rosary College offered a lecture series throughout the year. Besides faculty lectures by such people as George Anastapalo, S. Thomasine Cusack and S. Kay Ashe, special lectures were presented by Judith Bardwick and Hans Kuhn. Tito Gobbi also made a special apperance in an instructive opera session.

Drama

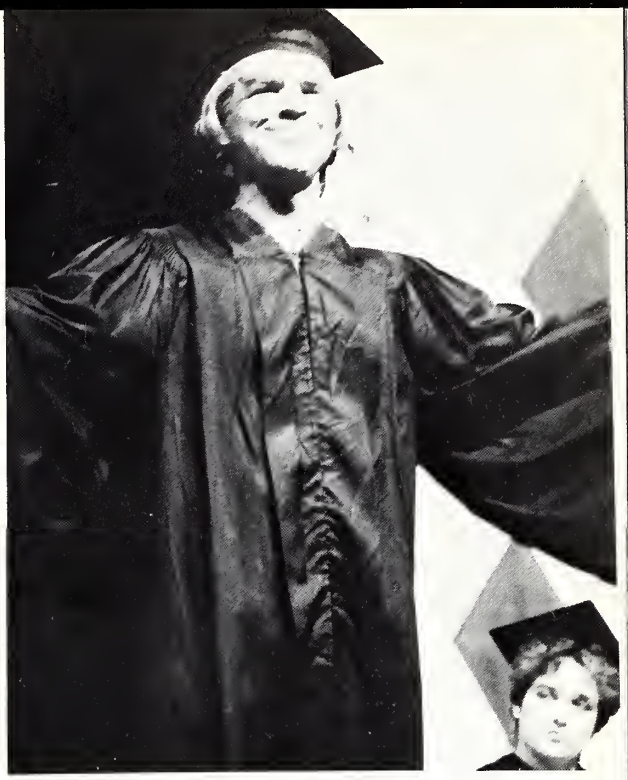
Two one-act plays by the 17th Century French playwright Moliere were performed on November 19 and 20, in the auditorium.

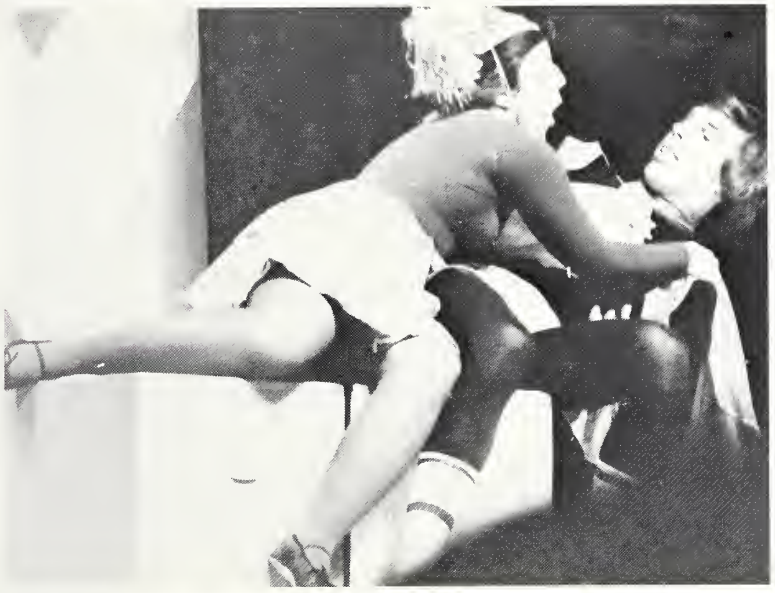
"The Affected Ladies" (Les Précieuses Ridicules) involves the courtship of two pretentious young ladies by two mischievious servants posing as elegant noblemen.

In "Love Is The Best Doctor" (L'Amour Médecin), fun is poked at the medical profession.

Both plays represent Moliere at his satirical best, ridiculing the weaknesses and errors of society while pointing up false values.

In harmony with the Comedia del Arte style, the cast was attired in leotards and gym trunks. Both plays were directed by Mr. Joseph Bell.





On November 3 and 4, and December 14, the Script Writing and Play Analysis class presented their own original plays during the dinner hour.

Directed by the writers themselves, the 3-5 minute pieces were performed by students from the Theatre Games course.

Both classes were taught by Mr. Joseph Bell.

Mr. Rosary

Amid the cheers and whistles of student women, the first annual Mr. Rosary Contest was held, appropriately enough on Halloween. After due consideration of the various contestants, the student-faculty panel of judges decided that none of the men measured up to their strict standards. However, Lauren McCormack was named "Man of the Evening".

I stood aghast as I gazed upon this graceful creature.
His moves were that of the most talented ballerina.
He floated to earth like a delicate feather.
As he raced across the ground I felt the intensity that built about him.
He stopped to quench his thirst.
I felt his mouth tingle with the iced freshness of a glacial snow.
As I looked upon this creature from paradise, he gave me the impression that he was playing a game.
I think it is called -- basketball.

Foreign Studies

If the Queen won't come to Rosary - Rosary will go to the Queen. Each year Rosary sends its finest to culture the Isles for a semester. After three weeks of roaming the English and Scottish countryside, the group settled into family life in London. Days were filled with traveling the tube, class convocations, walking tours, "pub grub," Parliament, art galleries, museums, theatre, all places of culture London has to offer...plus frequent visits to the many libraries.

MAGIC OF COLORS

God's breath, here and there,
Heaven above, heaven below,
Light sings its songs a thousand times,
God becomes the world in so many colors.

White to black, warm to cool,
Feel themselves newly drawn,
And forever out of the whirling chaos
The rainbow rises.

And so God's light
Wanders in a thousand forms,
Created and shaped together
And we cherish Him as the sun.

The thing is
I don't want to lose you.

because two different worlds make two different people

SPECIAL THANKS to

SGA

For their generous donation

Lightly lighting the ember burning,
Blue as the light of love,
You give yourself to me.

And I to you.
Perfect prisms of bursting color

We are.

TIME

And so we walked,
The snow brushed into our boots
And licking our raveled hair
Enjoyed the inoculated, polluted Earth.

And you stopped by a petrified Icy white creek, obstructed with the death of trees and entwining limbs to kiss my fresh toothpasty mouth,
While I told you to shave off your scraggly beard,
For it added to the concept of
Time.

Time, suspended like icicles on the boughs,
Still, lifeless, like the look in your eye;
An ambered sun shadowed our silhouette.
Time so tactful.

How much time will I have to be with you till the only remembrance I own will be a frozen smile in a wallet or an expression on my dresser covered in glass set in some cheap wooden frame.

I don't want to look,
talk to,
or love
you this way.
I just want time, this time to stand still,
to glue us together with its stiff threadings, to freeze us, freshly
This way,
For this moment is complete,
Is now.
